✓ SUPPLEMENTAL RESPONSE

Sir:

In response to an Interview Summary prepared by the Examiner with regard to a telephone interview held with applicant's representative, Daniel Kligler (Reg. No.

41,120), mailed on April 28, 2003, applicant submits the following remarks.

In the Interview Summary prepared by the Examiner, it is stated that applicant's representative "agreed that claim 1 has been overcome by the prior art." Applicant respectfully submits that the Examiner misunderstood the substance of certain comments made by applicant's representative, and that no admission whatsoever was made as to non-patentability of any of the claims. Rather, in view of the final rejection of all the claims in the application and in an effort to reach agreement on patentability of at least some of the claims before having to resort to a continuation or appeal, applicant suggested that claim 1 be set aside, and that the interview focus on claim 10 as a possible basis for agreement.

With respect to claim 10, the discussion during the interview centered mainly on the use of aliases by Barber (U.S. Patent 6,157,917), including the sample database of aliases presented by Barber in his Table 2. Applicant pointed out that Barber provides only a single alias for each target Web page, and does not suggest that the aliases are specific to a particular advertiser among a plurality of advertisers, as required by claim 10. The Examiner was not convinced by this argument as to the patentability of claim 10.

The substance of applicant's arguments is further summarized and expanded upon in the remarks to the amendment filed April 28, 2003.

Respectfully submitted,
